T.B. Clinic's Visit Here An Unqualified Success; Almost Assured of at Least 1800 Attendance

Local Committee Elated at Citizens' Support; Steady Stream of Adults and Children Has Kept Machine Operating at Full Capacity.

(Final figure was 1762)

"Take a deep breath, please, hold it . . . that's all, thank you." These rhythmic instructions were sung out to approximately 1,800 local citizens during the past six days as they wended their way through the Tuberculosis X-ray unit which has visited here during the past week.

It has been with keen satisfaction that the men responsible for bringing the clinic to Coleman has watched daily the large crowds that have attended. The equipment is valued at $25,000 plus salaries of the staff of three and miscellaneous expenses involved in keeping the unit operating.

It has been emphasized time and again by clinic officials that the organizational set-up in a town should be so perfected that a continual stream of citizens must attend the clinic so that the unit could operate to full capacity.

Thanks to a number of high school young ladies whose aid in organizing the clinic's program here has been of inestimable value, the clinic has been an unqualified success. Over 1,500 had attended up to Wednesday noon with a full schedule ready for Wednesday evening and Thursday morning, and we have the word of Mr. Ed. Holberg, of the Clinic, that he and his staff have been kept busy at all times and the unit has operated to capacity.

Thanks is also expressed to Mrs. Joe Spivak and Miss Josephine Mizera and Helen Rogers for their services at the clinic.

Those having any chest conditions will be notified within a three week period. Those not having any chest ailment will receive no notification.

The clinic's visit here has had public approval. It has been the talk of the town and the members of the clinic committee were busy individuals last Thursday morning as many who had been overlooked in the original canvass made hurried investigation as to whether they could attend the clinic. Too, miners especially have made good use of the clinic and which is to their advantage.

The unit left this afternoon and will start work at Blairmore tomorrow. Next Wednesday morning it will work Bellevue and Hillcrest and from each town reports are that many hundreds will be X-rayed.

him. Now that the war is over his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jock Bell, of Calgary and formerly of Coleman, are looking forward to the day when he will be able to travel on the long road home.

To The Citizens Of Coleman

I want to take this opportunity to thank the citizens who so kindly supported the 8th Victory Loan to a successful conclusion.

The general reception given the salesmen has enabled us to go over the top in a much shorter time than originally anticipated. In many instances we found that people were anxiously waiting for the salesmen to come around so that they might invest their money and this, of course, is the way it should be.

Canadians should be anxious at all times to invest their money in Canada. There is no safer investment paying interest.

$72 persons invested $157,000.00, this being a record for Coleman. While many have invested their savings, over 450 persons have bought on the monthly savings plan, thus assuring themselves of money for future expenditure taken out from their future earnings.

Since the beginning of the war Coleman citizens have invested in the neighborhood of a million dollars, bringing to the community upwards of $25,000 a year in interest.

Our salesmen have tramped the streets and knocked at every door for eight loans and now that the war in Europe is over many think that loans are also over. However, we have reason to believe that there will still be more loans and possible sacrifices and we must give ourselves and continue our determination and effort to carry this to a successful conclusion, whether in the east against Japan or on the Home Front.

Again thanking those bond buyers who have made us proud to be long to Coleman.

Sincerely,
Frank Abousaffy,
Unit Organizer.

Fish And Game Notes

President Percy Knowles, of the Coleman Fish & Game Association, has already been busy trying to get shells for his club members. Following are extracts from a letter received from G. M. Spargo, secretary of the Alberta Fish & Game Association:

Dear Mrs. Knowles:

I am very pleased indeed to note you have organized a strong Fish and Game Association at Coleman. This in time should prove a very important part of your community. Naturally I don't need to sell this business to you. You have been interested so long in matters of conservation in the Valley that it comes as second nature to find you attached to the organization and I am glad indeed that the people of Coleman interested in fishing and hunting honored themselves by electing you as their first president. Good luck to you.

Now I want to deal with the matters contained in your letter in their order.

Shells. I sent you at once RB202 forms which are to be used for getting shells for crow and magpie reduction. Before they can get a second box, however, the 10 pairs of crow or magpie feet required must be brought in. The amount necessary in the first place is 10 pair either species, which must then be destroyed. Either yourself or your secretary may sign the forms in duplicate just where it is stamped. The rest of the forms must conform to what is asked on each form, as enclosed (sample only). They are then taken to the local ration board where they will be recognized and one is returned back to the applicant, who will obtain his box of shells from whatever hardware store is carrying his favorite brand. It is a little late, but you still have a month or so before the campaign is finished. We are greatly hoping that now the war is over, we shall go off the ration end of this shell question. We have already had our vice-president, Mr. G. E. Watt, at Montreal, interviewing the CIL, as we did our president last year, but so far we have not any assurance that there will be any change in the shell question. You may be sure that we shall leave no stone unturned in getting this matter altered. As you know the registration of rifles has been one of the first things to be done away with. We are not exactly pleased over that, however, as we feel that it was good to have a check on unauthorized weapons of a dangerous calibre not only for humans, but also for our game. Indiscriminate handling and shooting by youths and those unqualified to handle a rifle has been far too frequent in the past.

Meeting of the Pass organizations. I am convinced that you can get further with your wants by uniting your locals for a common cause than any other possible means.

Crows' Nest Lake. We are going to have a great deal of difficulty in persuading the fish and game division that Crows' Nest Lake should be stocked with fish, the last time that fry were put in was under my jurisdiction in 1940, when as Director of Fisheries, I personally went with the oxygen tank car and placed 30,000 No. 1 fingerlings in the lake. I don't believe that any have been planted since then. These fish were obtained from Waterton Lakes Hatchery.

Now a matter of 130,000 five to six-inch fingerlings have been raised at the Pincher Creek ponds, and are now or shortly to be released into the trout waters around Pincher, the Pass, and south to Waterton Lakes. This does not look like very many, but it is a very good start, whether they would feel like putting any of these almost mature fish into Crows' Nest Lake, when the biologist has recommended against stocking until the food is much more prevalent than at present is another matter. I think the locals in the Crows' Nest should agitate to get the government to 'fertilize' the lake for a period of two or three years first, and then heavily stock it. One is simply putting the horse before the cart. However, I do feel that perhaps some error may have been committed in that the lake wasn't properly or long enough examined. I feel sure that the lake may be a very valuable reservoir for starting the fish along their way, and that when they reach a certain size, they leave the cold waters of the lake for the warmer waters of the

WAR PICTURES TO BE DISPLAYED THIS WEEK END

The Russian-Canadian Federation has been successful in bringing to Coleman a number of enlarged authentic pictures of battle scenes on the Russian battlefronts. They will be displayed in the Ukrainian hall, east Coleman, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 18 to 20, from 12 noon to 10 p.m. each day. All interested are invited to visit the display.

Pipe Band To Take Part In Creston Apple Blossom Parade

Reputation of Coleman Pipe Band Begins to Spread; Creston to Hold Apple Blossom Parade on Friday.

Tomorrow, Friday, Creston will sponsor an Apple Blossom Parade at which time the town will celebrate to the full.

Some former Colemanites now citizens of Creston were present when the Pass went to town on VE-Day with its monster parade. The pipe band took their fancy and on Tuesday there was a long distance telephone call from the BC fruit town to Miss Myrtle Johnston asking that she arrange to have the pipe band travel to Creston to take part in Friday's parade. This she has done and six band members will make the trip.

The band's May 23 date to be held in the Community hall appears to be an outstanding success. Tickets have been on sale during the past two weeks throughout the Pass and have met with a good response.

Money raised from this dance plus other activities will be spent on new equipment to help train approximately nineteen youths interested in learning to play the bagpipes and drums. Pipe Major Moore is quite enthused over the prospects of his band and the invitation to Creston is really a thrill to the six band members who will make the trip.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and deep appreciation to Coleman branch of the Canadian Legion for its thoughtfulness during the VE-Day celebrations in presenting us with a beautiful bouquet of flowers in memory of our son. It was a simple yet beautiful expression which will long remain with us.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Rogers.

Crows' Nest River and its tributaries. It is unquestionable, according to my experience at least, that fry will do far better in the quiet waters of a lake than in the fast flowing waters of a river or stream; and then again there is no question of food waters, which is ever prevalent in a stream, and creates havoc with young fingerlings or fry. Hence that can be used as an argument in favor of stocking Crows' Nest, certainly it should not be condemned until every avenue has been explored. I think that perhaps the best approach would be for your club to invite your member to listen to what you want. I know Mr. Duke is definitely behind any form of conservation either fish, game or fowl and I have found him to be particularly well informed in every way. I would suggest that your four clubs should invite him and support your resolutions. If you bring a recommendation for fingerlings for Crows' Nest, it should be done right away or else you will find the stocking completed and no fingerlings in the pools.

Fertilizing the lake. I would suggest in the first particular you send a letter to the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. at Trail, BC, give them a synopsis of what you propose to do, and ask their chemical engineers or scientists to assist you in this respect. Having this in hand, the cost, quantity and so forth, you can then approach it from a practical point of view. The cost may be so prohibitive as to be out of question, on the other hand it may be possible to do it for a very reasonable amount of money. I would be very glad once you have obtained this information if you will let me know and then from that point I can advise you better.

Sincerely,
G. M. Spargo.

Bereaved Families Not Forgotten On V-E Day

Legion Presented Bouquets to all Mothers Who Lost Sons in Great Struggle.

While thousands in the Pass made merry a little committee of the Canadian Legion gathered together nine bouquets and quietly visited all Coleman homes which had been bereaved by the loss of a son during the European conflict.

In these homes there were no rejoicing, but only memories and the thought of what might have been. However, grateful appreciation was expressed by all to the committee for the Legion's thoughtfulness in their behalf at the height of the VE-Day celebrations.

Flowers were placed on the grave of Angus McDonald, who returned from Britain only to die a few weeks later at Calgary and whose body lies in the local Catholic cemetery. Mr. Rusk's parents are no longer residents here and therefore it was impossible to present flowers to them.

Coleman's war dead include John Rogers, Tom Brennan, George Kroesing, William Harrison, Jr., Wesley MacQuarrie, William Nimcan, Lawrence Jankulak, Clifford Morris, J. Angus McDonald and M. Suska.

Five In Race Macleod Riding

In the Macleod federal riding five candidates were nominated for the election June 11. All five had filed their nomination papers by Saturday.

The candidates are: Alfred G. Lewis, Liberal, Claresholm; O. E. Wobick, CCF, Barons; William A. Land, Labor - Progressive party, Blairmore; Rev. E. G. Hassall, Social Credit, Vulcan; and Stanley Wyatt, Progressive - Conservative, Claresholm.

Don't forget to go to The Salvation Army this Sunday to hear Captain Mattison, of Calgary, who was stationed here in 1938.

Miss Mavis Heweston, of Ashcroft, BC, enroute home from University of Alberta, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Houghton, Jr.

MISS M. SNIDER HONORED

Mrs. F. Smith and Miss H. Dibble were hostesses at the former's home on Monday, May 14, when the Evening Auxiliary of St. Paul's United church met for the regular May meeting.

The theme of the study period was built around the book "Adrift," the hymns and scripture readings being chosen with the thought of those in peril on the sea.

The business period was an important one, as it dealt with the work for the Fall, when it is hoped to send a parcel to the Battle River hospital.

The social hour took on a more festive appearance than is the custom. Just before lunch was served the members honored Miss Mary Snider on the occasion of her approaching marriage. Mrs. Kettlys, in making the presentation of the coffee table, expressed the best wishes of the group for future happiness.

Lions Club Plans To Construct Paddling Pool For Kiddies

Have Long Range Plans for Children's Playgrounds.

Plans are now being prepared by members of the local Lions club for the construction of a paddling pool for the use of the tiny tots of Coleman. This project has been under consideration of the Lions for some time and should help to fill a definite need for recreational facilities for the little ones. At the present time there is no place for children to play except on the streets and in their own back yards. Most cities and towns have provided play grounds for the children which have proved very popular with the little ones. The Lions club has a long range plan in mind whereby Coleman youngsters will eventually be provided with similar facilities.

A committee of the Lions will attend a meeting of the town council and will outline to the council their proposals and at the same time request permission and approval of the governing body to proceed with the work.

About a year ago the Lions club sponsored a song recital, featuring Miss Freda Antrobus, Coleman's singing star. The net receipts of this concert were earmarked for a community project and it is the intention of the Lions to apply this fund to the construction of the paddling pools, sand pits, etc.

PYTHIAN SISTERS HONOR MOTHERS

The Pythian Sisters held a social evening on Friday, May 11, in honor of Mother's Day, when each member invited a mother. Whist was played, winners being Mrs. Joy Kwasine and Mrs. E. Beart. Following whist a delicious banquet was served.

It was during this social that the raffle, scheduled to be held on May 9, took place. The winner of the pillow cases was Mrs. Wm. Cousins with ticket number 214. The flowers which decorated the table were sent to Mrs. Sarah Hill, who is a patient in the local hospital.

GOOD NEWS RECEIVED BY DERBYSHIRES

Good news in the form of a wire was received on Saturday morning by Mrs. George Derbyshire, jr., from her husband informing her that he was safe now in London after several months a prisoner of war in Germany.

It is not revealed how long it will be before he is able to come home.

BILL GRAHAM NOW PILOT OFFICER

Bill Graham, RCAF, who arrived recently from overseas after completion of a tour of operations, received word this week that he had been promoted to the rank of pilot officer, retroactive from Feb. 6 of this year. Bill had been an airgunner and has had the experience of looking down his gun sights at approaching enemy planes. He has to report back to Winnipeg at the end of the month.

Mrs. Padgett Paid Official Visit to Rebekah Lodge

Ten Candidates Given Degree; Representatives Present From Michel, Blairmore, Bellevue.

Mrs. Padgett, of Bellevue, warden of the Rebekah Assembly, paid her official visit to Victoria Rebekah Lodge at its regular meeting on Tuesday, May 15. Fifty visitors were present from Michel, Blairmore and Bellevue lodges and were welcomed by Mrs. Nash, NG.

Ten candidates were given the Rebekah degree, Mrs. Mina Ford, PNG, being degree captain and Mrs. Mildred Holstead, PNG, officiating as Noble Grand on the degree team.

Mrs. Padgett complimented Mrs. Holstead, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Murdoch, PNG, pianist, and the degree team for its efficiency in degree work. Mrs. Dunlop, PVP, on behalf of the lodge presented Mrs. Padgett with a gift. Mrs. Lonsbury, on behalf of the Lodge, presented Mrs. Ford with a gift as a slight token of the lodge's appreciation for her work as degree captain.

Brief addresses were given by Mrs. Padgett; Mrs. R. Simister, NG, of Blairmore; Mrs. J. Ruy-maekel, NG, of Bellevue; Mrs. Lowe, DDP, of Michel; Mr. James Cousins, PGM, of Bellevue; and from Coleman, Mrs. J. Nash, NG; Mrs. C. Lonsbury, Mrs. M. D'Amico and Mrs. M. McFarland.

The meeting was followed by a banquet convened by Mrs. Elizabeth Lonsbury, PNG, and at which plates were laid for eighty. A cake, donated by Mrs. Agnes Vincent, PNG, was won by Mrs. Helen Houde, of Bellevue. This brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Synthetic Rubber

Expect That It Will In Time Be As Good As The Natural Product

So many fantastic stories have been circulated about the probable future of synthetic rubber, it is pleasing to get from Mr. E. W. Riebling of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, a reliable estimate of its possibilities. It should be obvious that this substance is here to stay, and the chief question in everyone's mind is as to whether it can ever take the place entirely of the natural product.

As Mr. Riebling points out this will depend on the uses to which we wish to put it. For some purposes it is actually superior to rubber. For others, it does not measure up so well. Science, however, has made such great strides in a remarkably short time, it is reasonable to expect that whatever defects now exist will eventually be eliminated. We can count on the synthetic product in time, surpassing its predecessor in usefulness.

This is a way man made things have. Once circumstances compel scientists to go out and seek a substitute for an essential material, they usually end up with something better than the original. This does not mean that man is superior to Nature. It simply shows that he is capable of learning Nature's lessons well. Windsor Star.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

TRANSFORMED LUNCH ROOM—Gleaming chromium and bright new woodwork, added to a new paint job throughout, have transformed the Brandon lunch room and news stand of the Canadian Pacific Railway into a thing of beauty and efficiency. The lunch room was renovated along with others at Medicine Hat, Swift Current and Broadview as part of the C.P.R.'s widespread programme of station improvements. Similar alterations are under plan for Fort William. Station restaurants are busier than ever during war days, and new equipment enables staffs to serve travellers more speedily and efficiently.

Many Ships

Fast Passenger Vessels Lost During The War

To see an enormous vessel like the Queen Mary sail proudly up Southampton Water or into New York harbor is a thrilling sight even though monsters of 40,000 tons and over lack the grace of their smaller sisters.

The liner of about 20,000 tons is perhaps the best. It is large enough to be impressive and small enough to be beautiful. The old White Star liners of the Baltic class with their four masts and two funnels were among the most beautiful steamships ever to sail the seas.

It is among vessels of this tonnage that the losses have been so heavy. The Caledonia and Transylvania of the Anchor Line, the Viceroy of India and the Rawalpindi of the P. and O., Vandevik and Voltaire of Lamport and Hollis, Oronsky and Orcaides of the Orient Line, Warwick Castle and Windsor Castle of the Union-Castle Line.

So the list lengthens and this is but a very small selection. One company has lost 31 out of 32 fine ships; another, operating eight fast passenger and cargo vessels before the war, has lost every one. London Daily Mail.

Hearts Of Oak

Oaks From Surrey-Sussex Forests Used To Repair Historical Building

Some highly sentimental suggestions have come from the least likely quarters on the subject of repairing the Houses of Parliament with oak from particular constituencies. The proposals are not feasible but a delightful example of the idea has been illustrated in Westminster Hall.

When many of the timbers were condemned owing to ravages of the death-watch beetle, new oak was supplied from the same Surrey-Sussex forest from which the original beams had come a many hundred years earlier. It was reckoned—I think by Sir George Courthope, the owner of the woodlands that the trees cut down for the repairs could have just remembered the felling of their ancestors!

What a pretty example of the continuity of English history. Not only our men and our ships are "Hearts of Oak", and the oaks of central England, notably by Stratford-on-Avon, are as well placed as these by Bucklers Hard, which provided some of the most famous of our "wooden walls." London Spectator.

A Big Problem

Finding Places For Thousands Of Canada's Crack Airmen

End of the bombing offensive in Europe threw thousands of veteran Canadian airmen out of work and put one of the crack heavy-bomber groups of this theatre in line for a new task or possible dissolution.

The future of the group's fliers and ground crews, plus that of tens of thousands of Canadians in the R.A.F., this shortly is expected to become an immediate question for the Allied Air Command to answer.

It has been reported that the air police force in Europe will be an intentional body, but the role to be played by Canadians is not likely to be a large one, and a major part of the force is expected to be made up of the lighter type of aircraft—fighters and fighter bombers.

Whatever happens to these famous airmen, the Alouette, Mosco, Goose, Bison, Lark are a few of their names. It's a matter of record that they're put up a terrific performance and will be talked of whenever strategists discuss the way in which air power helped win the Second Great War.

Normally in medieval drama all parts were taken by men though in France there are records of women on the stage prior to 1550.

Important Seaport

Hamburg Was One Of Great Water Terminals In Europe

W. L. Clark, in the Windsor Star, says: Hamburg, the great seaport of Germany, is a sprawling city, which has its streets running along the edges of inlets from the sea. The main harbor is a huge expanse of docks and warehouses. The city is an intricate pattern of rivers and water routes.

Hamburg is a city where a motorist can get lost in no time. Short streets that run smack into a river or canal make driving confusing. We recall once getting so lost in the maze of Hamburg streets, we finally had to get a native with a bicycle to ride in front to guide us to our destination. And, even that was not so easy, because he forgot that a car cannot always be driven through narrow passages that present no difficulty for the cyclist.

Hamburg has been one of the important water terminals in Europe. Seamen traffic from the world ports arrives at Hamburg, while river and canal traffic connects with the intricate systems of inland waterways that extend through Germany.

Paper Making

Chinese Were The First To Discover A Practical Method

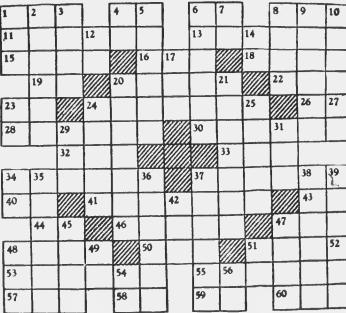

Farm woodlots contribute their quota of the pulp for the manufacture of newspaper. In Canada the manufacture of paper began early in the last century, the first mill being installed at St. Andrews, near Lunenburg, in Lower Canada in 1803. The Chinese were the first to discover a practical method of paper making by the weaving of fibres. The Arabs of Samarkand found the art from the Chinese and were followed by the Persians. The Moors introduced paper making into Europe in the 12th century through Spain, as they did agriculture after that art had been lost and forgotten during the dark ages. From Spain, paper making spread to Italy, France, the Netherlands, and Germany. It was begun in England in 1492 but apparently died until re-introduced 100 years later. However, it did not become firmly established until the end of the 17th century.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

HARD LUCK

— BY —
HELEN THOMSON

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The shop was dark except for the light over the pearl. Lecovitch always kept his blinds drawn to keep out the heat. If his hands perspired, he couldn't get the right grip on a pearl.

We'd been watching Lecovitch for three hours. Nobody had said six words after I handed him the shell. How we prayed that she'd come through without breaking under the skinning knife! If this was our break we'd get the old boat fixed up and still have plenty left for clothes and cats for the winter. Even a little one could do that for you if she was clever.

We lost. Lecovitch threw his knife on the bench and shook his head. I didn't realize how tense I was until I got up. My jaws ached from the way I'd had them clenched. Ted was shaking as if he had malaria chills. He lost eleven pounds in these three hours. Nobody but a pearl man will believe that.

We stumbled out of the shop into the strong sunlight and ducked over to the old hat wharf across Front Street. "There's Jim," I groaned, nudging Ted who was lying face down with his head on his arms. "But I guess he can't make us feel any worse, no matter what he says."

"I'd be glad he has the best fishing lugger on the bay if he'd only quit bragging," Ted muttered. "You think that after all these years he might want to divide his good luck with the rest of us."

Jim leaned over the railing of the trim, newly-painted Louella. "Well, well, well! If it ain't our big pearl fisher!" he jeered with that big laugh of his. "Come on up here on the best little boat on the bay and have some supper. Guess guys like you don't get a good meal very often."

Ted and I trudged up the gangplank. We were thirsty and dirty and nearly broken-hearted from disappointment. I guess we thought we'd been suckers and halfway deserved

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Rod from any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet which quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Rod is pleasant to use. It has no odor and it seems the lightest of tablets for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Rod and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

Jim dusted off a stool so he wouldn't get his new white pants dirty. "Everybody in this business knows it's the oysters that bring in the money," he began, filling his pipe without troubling himself to offer us a smoke. "But some folks still keep chasing pearls. I've done my darndest to get the people around here to see that it's smarter to take back plenty of oysters than to spend a half hour on each shell hunting for a little pearl that ain't there."

"There's a nice looking load," said Jim, holding it up for us to see. "There's real money there and it don't take a shell opener and a pearl skinner to find it."

"We sure had a nice looking pearl this noon," Ted cut in gloomily. "She looked just like the Cleopatra," I added. "And the Cleopatra weighed ten grains and sold for $35,000. I know, because the fellow who got her used to tie up right alongside of us."

Jim smiled in a condescending way. "And last week somebody found one that weighed almost forty grains. She looked fine at the start and everybody guessed she'd bring about $75,000. But she broke during the skinning," he said, shaking his empty pipe at us.

"Our didn't break up," Ted growled. "But Lecovitch had to take off so many skins hunting for the perfect one that there wasn't anything left when he finished."

Jim looked at the big watch, then hit the deck bell twice. A Filipino came running upstairs. "Crack these and throw them in the pot for supper," Jim ordered, handing over half a basket of shells. Then he burst out laughing as if he'd just remembered a good joke. "These men here are crazy about oysters. I know they'll enjoy a little stew this evening!"

Ted and I just looked at each other. We couldn't answer him, either of us.

Jim slipped me on the back. "Well, I'll tell you boys that I could use a little money for new nets right now," he explained, as if it were a big favor for him to take a couple of wharf bums like us into his confidence. "But I'm hauling oysters to make my money. Anybody'll tell you that there ain't much about this business that I don't know. I guess I'm the only man on this part of the coast who knows how to see to it that his luck's always good!"

Ted and I were relieved when the supper gong sounded below deck. As soon as we were at the table, the Filipino served big soup plates full of stew.

"I guess this is your dish all right," Jim said, pulling his plate toward him. "Oysters have been keeping you two in a stew for a long time!" He laughed that big belly of his that tears his nerves raw.

After a few seconds Ted and I noticed that Jim was quiet. We both looked up to see why. There he was, jabbing at one of the oysters before him. I'll never forget the look on his face. When the pearl rolled out, we saw that it was a whopper—must've weighed forty grains. But it was blistered and dull, ruined from the cooking.

SELECTED RECIPES

SALISBURY LOAF

- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 cup chopped parsley
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 1 pound ground pork or sausage
- 4 cups corn flakes

- 8 medium potatoes
- 3 tablespoons melted fat
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- Combine eggs, milk, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, parsley, onion, ground meat and crushed corn flakes. Mix thoroughly. Form into loaf about 2 inches high, on greased heat-proof platter or pan. Bake 1 1/2 hours.

PEANUT BUTTER REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

- 1/2 cup peanut butter
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 cups light brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 cup over-popped rice cereal
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder

Blend together peanut butter and butter; add sugar gradually and beat until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in cereal. Sift flour with baking powder and work into first mixture, a small amount at a time. Knead and shape into rolls about 1 1/2 inches in diameter; wrap in waxed paper, covering ends so that dough will not dry out. Store in refrigerator until firm. Cut into 45 slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderately hot oven (325 deg. F.) about 10 minutes.

Yield: 7 1/2 dozen cookies (2 inches in diameter). Note: One tablespoon water or milk may be added to dough if it is difficult to shape into rolls.

Australia At Last May Make Money Out Of Rabbits

War has brought about the glorification of Australia's national pest, the rabbit. A month ago the Indian Government was asking for Australian rabbits to breed for food for the Indian services.

Now New Zealand's Internal Affairs Minister P. J. Sheehan has announced that Australia is releasing 192,000 rabbit traps to enable New Zealand to continue export of frozen rabbit meat to Britain.

Early settlers brought rabbits to Australia from England. Australia has spent millions of dollars trying to get rid of them. They have been hunted with guns, traps, poison bait, ferrets and gas. A transcontinental, supposedly rabbit-proof fence was built from north to south in Western Australia years ago. But still the rabbit increased.

Today Australia is almost reconciled to the pest. The animals are entirely free of disease. Rabbit meat is coupon free and even the more select restaurants are now serving rabbit. Export of pelts to the United States is increasing.

HOMING PIGEONS

Tests by British and American Army scientists have convinced them that it is a "little tickle" in the ear of a homing pigeon which makes it fly home over long distances but they don't know what causes the tickle.

Research Worker

Dr. Watson, Whose Death Was Announced Recently, Was A Renowned Veterinarian

By the recent death in Victoria, B.C., of Dr. E. A. Watson, formerly Dominion Animal Pathologist, Canada loses an illustrious research worker in veterinary science. Dr. Watson was born in Devon, England, in 1879 and came to Canada in 1896, taking up a homestead in company with his brother at Eastend, Saskatchewan. When the South African war broke out, he joined the Canadian army and while serving in South Africa first became interested in veterinary science. Towards the close of the war, he was appointed assistant in the laboratory near Pretoria, set up by the British Government under Dr. Arnold Theiler, formerly in the service of the Transvaal Republic.

Returning to Canada, Dr. Watson entered the Ontario Veterinary College and graduated in 1904. After practising his profession in Virginia for a few months, he was appointed assistant pathologist at the Biological Laboratory in Ottawa. The following year Dr. Watson was placed in charge of the Branch Laboratory at Lethbridge, Alberta. There he commenced his studies of dourine and for the first time in North America demonstrated the causative agent of the disease, which later he became a world authority.

During the first world war, he was attached veterinary officer attached to a Western unit of the Canadian army in 1915, and when the British Government established a Veterinary Bacteriological Laboratory in France, he was called upon to take charge of it. Shortly after his return to Canada following the end of World War I he was appointed Chief of the Pathological Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, a position he held until his retirement through ill health in 1942. Owing to his persistent agitation for better facilities for veterinary research in Canada, the Animal Diseases Research Institute was established in Hull, Que., and remains a fitting memorial to his great work in veterinary science. After his retirement, he went to live in Victoria, B.C., where he died on March 12, 1945.

Returned Men

Rehabilitation Work Just Needs Some Common Sense

There is no reason to treat every veteran as a difficult problem child. It is stated in a report issued by the committee on rehabilitation of the House League of Canada.

"It is a fact that the majority of returned servicemen, especially those back from combat service, are proving themselves to be energetic and conscientious at work," the report says. "They have well-balanced personalities. They are resilient. They are adjusting themselves quickly to civilian life, and management is discovering that they have high standards of loyalty and teamwork. Actually, in many cases, these veterans will be able to teach management a lot about such matters as co-operation."

In the cases of the "few" who need special handling, the report advises that "you do not have to be a psychiatrist to help them. They can be handled with common sense—good foremanship—good personnel work." The report describes in detail the cases of a few men who found it difficult to settle down and tells how plant personnel aided them in properly adjusting themselves.

GARDEN NOTES

Hot Weather Plants

For the best results, cucumbers, squash and melons should be planted in specially prepared hills. These things like hot weather, are very much afraid of frost, and cold wet feet. Seed or started plants can be used.

Hills are simply loose soil built up in mounds two or three feet across and about six inches high. Into these should be worked some well-rotted manure or black mulch. This keeps the soil open so that the soft, fibrous roots can penetrate easily and the darkish color of the mulk or well-rotted manure absorbs the heat of the sun which these plants love.

Studying Plants Best

When starting plants don't choose the tallest box. If cabbage, tomatoes, petunias, zinnias or whatever one is buying are crowded together in the box or forced along too quickly in the greenhouse the plants are tall and spindly. When set out in permanent quarters they are not likely to do nearly as well as bushy, stocky chaps which have been grown more slowly and have been hardened off thoroughly from the greenhouse. The good nurserymen or seedsmen do not bring plants right out of the heated greenhouse and offer them for sale. First they gradually adapt them to cooler and more rigorous outdoor temperatures by hardening plants in a cold frame.

Three Mistakes

Experts say that much garden trouble traces to three points of neglect to deep planting, lack of staking and stopping cultivation too soon. All are important, none take much labor or time, but if any are overlooked full dividends from the garden are impossible.

Astronomers estimate that the temperature on Mars registers 30 degrees Fahrenheit at noon and drops to 40 below at midnight.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Must Welcome Boys Home

Now that the war with Germany has been won our Coleman boys will soon be returning in their ones and twos to the Old Home Town.

Naturally the citizens who have backed them to the full by the purchase of war bonds and in lesser degree with cigarettes and comforts will want to finish the job by giving them a fitting welcome home. Now is the time for planning. Our problem would be much easier if they all pulled into town on one train, but that is an impossibility. We would suggest that either the Legion or some committee organized for the purpose make plans for sponsoring a social evening once a month or even once in two months. The boys returning between these social evenings would be the guests of honor. Should there be a gift for each would be a decision to be reached by the committee. Some boys have returned home now, but so far nothing is mooted that they will be honored at a social evening from any local organization. We should have an organization whose sole duty would be to meet these boys on their arrival home and see that their home-coming is recognized in some suitable manner. Having some function every time one arrives in town would be too costly. Let's have a planned program.

Must Have Bronze Plaque

Two down and one to go. Only Japan now remains as Italy and Germany lie prone on the canvas. There may be hard fighting ahead with Japan and then again there may not. Japan must surely know that once the full power of the States and the British Commonwealth of Nations is thrown against her, disaster must inevitably overtake her.

Ten Coleman boys have given their lives that we retain our freedom. In order that their names may never fade, it is fitting that a bronze plaque bearing their names be ordered and given a place of honor in the town hall.

The Legion will no doubt take care of their plaque and the school board will very probably do what it did after the last war—have a plaque with the names of all former Coleman students, who paid the supreme sacrifice, inscribed upon it and hung prominently in one of the schools.

What's The Delay?

What has happened to the organization set up to revive the Red Trail Association? It is now two months ago since a meeting was held to get action on number 3 highway through the Pass, it was agreed to hold another meeting within a month, but so far nothing has been heard from the committee appointed to prepare for the second meeting.

While it can't be proved the result of Pass agitation, it is rather a coincidence that the public works department should be so busy these days dumping tons of gravel on the highway between Maple Leaf and Pincher Station. In fact so much gravel has been dumped that it has cushioned the washboard road and it is a much smoother run than the so-called "paved" highway from Pincher to Macleod, which is in terrible condition.

While this work on the highway is appreciated by the Pass motorist it is not enough. Continued use of the highway will, in a matter of weeks, sweep this gravel off the road and its condition will be as bad as ever. We deserve a permanently paved road and must continue, through a proper organization, to demand such a road.

T.B. Clinic Here a Success

It is seldom that we have had the privilege of listening to a local committee being praised voluntarily by John Public, but it has actually happened this past week.

Hundreds have visited the T.B. clinic, brought here by the efforts of some public spirited citizens. The unit is a most modern piece of equipment capable of doing good work. Many have wished to be X-rayed for their own peace of mind, but have never had the money for this purpose. To have it brought right to their own back yard is something they had given no thought to, hence their sincere thanks to the local committee for making it possible.

The committee gets its own satisfaction in seeing the clinic being such a success, and the fact that they have rendered the community a worthwhile service.

At Last— Fair Play for the Farmer

"Canadian farmers have never had a fair return for their labour. They are forced to buy in a protected market at relatively high prices and to sell in a world market at generally low prices. What agriculture needs is not crutches to carry its disability; it needs to have the disability removed. This can only be accomplished by permanent measures and long range planning."

John Bracken

At last—a farmer fights for fair play for farmers! For more than twenty years John Bracken, the Farmer, was the undefeated leader of a Farmers' Party. To-day, as leader of a great, national, progressive party, he is determined that throughout the length and breadth of Canada there shall be a square deal for agriculture... fair play for the farmer... on a permanent basis!

Farmers have seldom had a fair share of the nation's income. Rarely do they receive a just reward for their endless labours. John Bracken means to stop, once and for all, the unfair discrimination against farmers, the unjust economic practices which make it impossible for farmers to obtain fair prices for the fruits of their labour.

"It is the responsibility of the nation," says the leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, "to see that this great inequity shall not be perpetuated... I know where I stand in the matter. Let me make that position clear. It is not fore-ordained that farmers shall work for less pay than anybody else; or have their children receive only one-quarter the chance of a secondary education or one-tenth of the chance of a university education that other children get; or see their wives forced into lives of toil, often 12 but sometimes 14 hours a day—Sundays and holidays included. The trouble is that no one with the necessary authority has determined to correct the basic economic ills of Agriculture."

To-day, John Bracken, the Farmer, seeks the necessary authority to put into immediate operation the far-reaching

Progressive Conservative policies that will permanently ensure fair play for the farmer. Here are just some of the points in the Progressive Conservative plan for the definite, continuous and permanent protection of farmers against income collapse and wide extremes of income fluctuation:

The Farmer shall be guaranteed a proportionate share of the nation's income.

A permanent policy for forward contract prices shall be guaranteed to farmers—by law.

The prices guaranteed will be calculated by a non-political council, and will be based on the farmer's proportionate share of the national income. These prices will be announced before the production seasons begin.

This policy will increase present average farm income by not less than twenty per cent.

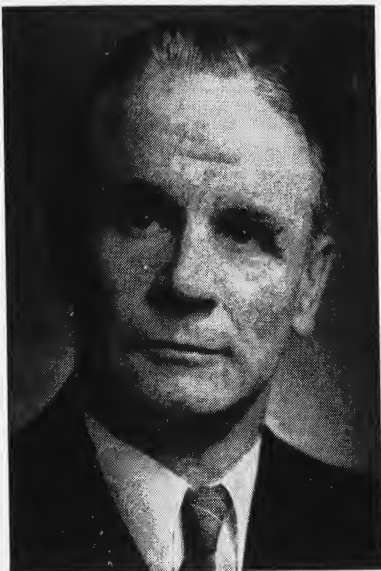

It takes a farmer to understand farmers' problems. Only a farmer knows the full economic injustice from which farmers suffer. To-day, John Bracken is fighting for fair play for every farmer. The leader of the Progressive Conservatives is determined to bring security and prosperity to farmers permanently. Join in the fight. Help him to win his life-long struggle to give Agriculture a place in Canada's prosperity, not for a day—but for all time to come.

A Farmer fights for you... He needs your help.

John Bracken — The Man

John Bracken, the son of a farmer Ephraim Bracken and his wife, Alberta, was born in a log cabin in Ellisville, Leeds County, Ontario, on the 22nd of June, 1883.

Here, briefly chronicled, are the main events in the life of John Bracken:

- 1898 - Student at Brockville Collegiate, Ontario.
- 1902-5 Student at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. He won four scholarships, the Governor-General's Medal, was top honours student and class medalist. Here, too, he met Alice Wylie Bruce.
- 1906 - Young Bracken went to Winnipeg as representative of the Seeds Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.
- 1907 - In the neighbouring Province of Saskatchewan, John Bracken became Superintendent of Fairs and Farmers' Institutes and Secretary of the Provincial Livestock Association.
- 1910 - John Bracken was appointed Professor of Field Husbandry at the new University of Saskatchewan. He took the first train to Guelph, Ontario, married Alice Wylie Bruce. Four sons were born—three of whom are now on Active Service with the Navy, Army and Air Force.
- 1920 - Already the author of two books on agriculture, John Bracken became President of the Manitoba Agricultural College.
- 1922 - John Bracken accepted the leadership of the Progressive Farmer Government, was sworn in as Prime Minister of Manitoba.

Now began the political life of the most continuously successful political leader the Empire has produced in this century. Since that day—from 1922 to 1942—John Bracken has never been defeated.

- 1932 - The Liberals joined John Bracken's farmer government.
- 1940 - All the other political parties, including the C.C.F. and Social Creditors, threw in their fortunes with a great leader forming a wartime Coalition Manitoba government.
- 1942 - The year of John Bracken's great decision. John Bracken, the Progressive, accepted the national leadership of a great resurgent people's party—The Progressive Conservatives.

Synod Office, May 3, 1945.
To the Officers and Members of Parochial Women's Organizations of the Diocese of Calgary.

Dear Members:
We have been fortunate in this Diocese to receive the gift of a piece of land upon which we can build a Summer Camp for the various organizations of our Diocese. This is something of which we have felt the need for many years; for although we have had our summer schools at Banff, at Bowfort, and one at St. Paul's school, Cardston, we have never been able to do more than have at the most one summer school a year, and for the last three years, on account of lack of accommodation, we have been unable to have even a summer school.

With the acquisition of a Diocesan camp, we shall not only be enabled to have our summer school each year, but also arrange boys' camps, girls' camps, AYPA camps, and, if desired, W.A. get-togethers, mothers' camps and so on.

The property which we have been most generously given is located in the very heart of the Diocese, at Millerville, some 33 miles south-southwest of Calgary.
As you well know, we have had in the last few months a Diocesan campaign for funds in order that we may be able to care for the work in the mission parishes and isolated areas of the Diocese, and also to re-establish our chaplains, and it is impossible to issue a general appeal to the Diocese for funds whereby to establish this camp with buildings; but this is the most opportune time that could possibly happen at which to acquire buildings, as the War Assets Corporation of Canada is disposing of buildings, furnishings, beds, etc., and all the very things that are needed to establish our Diocesan camp.

We cannot lose this opportunity, and we are therefore appealing to all the parochial women's organizations throughout our Diocese to help us in this work, which will mean so much in the development along religious lines of our children and young people. We do appeal to your organization for as generous a donation as possible.

I am writing this letter on behalf of the Diocesan Board Religious Education, a sub-committee of which is in charge of making the arrangements for the establishment of this summer camp.

Yours very faithfully,
Richard, Bishop of Calgary.

N.S.S. REINSTATEMENT

Persons coming under the Reinstatement in Civilian Employment Act who select to take a training or university course which will extend beyond the time in which they are entitled to reinstatement, cannot exercise that right at the conclusion of the course, according to instructions from Ottawa.

Except in certain cases provided for in reinstatement regulations, the person claiming reinstatement rights must exercise those rights within the period mentioned under the Act, and the Unemployment Insurance Commission cannot require the employer to hold the position open until the end of the training course.

The best advice that can be given to such persons is that they exercise their rights to reinstatement within the period mentioned, then arrange with their employers for leave of absence to take the training course. It is believed that in most cases where the employee can show that the training course will make him a more efficient worker, the employer would be willing to grant him the necessary leave of absence.

Letter to the Editor

Editor, Journal.
Dear Sir:

Through your columns I wish to take this opportunity of expressing my most sincere thanks to the executive and members of the Coleman Branch of the Canadian Legion and the citizens of Coleman for their joint co-operation in sending a monthly carton of cigarettes to myself and other Coleman personnel in the armed forces overseas.

Only those persons far from home and on the widely scattered battle fronts of Europe realize the deep appreciation that is felt for Coleman citizens who never for a moment forgot their boys overseas.

Soon we shall be home to express in person our grateful thanks for gifts of cigarettes and Christmas parcels.

Jimmy Anderson.

CHECK-UP UNDER THE N.S.S. CIVILIAN REGULATIONS

A total of 84 persons were convicted during March, 1945, of failing to comply with National Selective Service civilian regulations, according to a statement issued this week. During the month 93 new prosecutions were begun, in addition to 200 cases being carried over from the previous month. In February 79 new prosecutions were started.

The March judgments included 15 against employers, most of whom were found guilty of engaging workers without permits. Of 42 employees convicted, a majority were charged with leaving employment without giving notice of separation, quitting "designated" high priority work when referred by a selective service officer.

Twenty-seven conscientious objectors were convicted of failing to follow a direction to report to an alternative service work camp.

At April 1, a total of 190 cases were still pending — 21 being charges against employers, 86 against employees and 83 against conscientious objectors. This represents a slight reduction in cases pending.

Since August, 1942, when prosecutions were first undertaken under national selective service civilian regulations, a total of 2,059 charges have been laid. There have been 1,468 convictions to date, 40 acquittals and 361 cases were not proceeded with.

Elks "Save The Children Fund"

217,000 Refugees in Serbia From Bosnia; 86,000 of These Children.

Tragic conditions among children in Europe, as reported by overseas workers of the Save The Children Fund, were revealed this week by Mr. Justice J. C. McRuer, chairman of the fund's Canadian committee.

Fund workers in Europe have been informed by the Yugoslav Red Cross central committee that 217,000 refugees in Serbia from Bosnia had lost everything — 86,000 of these were said to be children.

"Just now statutory bodies in Serbia are responsible for 50,000 children," says the statement from the chief of the section for maternity and child welfare in Serbia, received by Mr. McRuer. "These children have lost one or both parents. We have great difficulties to assist them, as we have no means of getting them clothes and shoes.

"As far as food is concerned, we can give them very little meat, very little cereals and vegetables. Their food consists mainly of maize-bread, beans and a little potatoes and cabbage. Doctors report various illnesses caused by the lack of vitamins."

The Canadian committee of the

Save The Children Fund is at present financing a team of ten workers on loan to UNRRA in Yugoslavia in order to help ease the situation there wherever possible. Mr. McRuer said. Hundreds of kits have been sent from Canada to the Netherlands Red Cross for Dutch children and to the fund workers in Sweden for the 75,000 refugee children located there.

Under an "adoption" plan recently drawn up between the Canadian committee of the fund and the Swedish branch of the Save The Children International Union, a Canadian sponsor may pay $96 per year to feed or clothe a refugee child. The sponsor then receives a picture of his "adoption" and his case history. This tangible form of individual help goes a long way, Mr. McRuer said, in restoring the faith of the child.

The fund reports that the Benovolent and Protective Order of Elks in Canada and Newfoundland have been mainly responsible through their contributions of more than $75,000 for the Canadian committee's extensive work among child bomb victims in Great Britain.

Chairman of the British Save The Children Fund, Lord Noel Buxton, had recently written as follows: "I should be glad if you would convey to the Order of Elks our immense gratitude for the splendid help they are continuing to give us for the whole of our work and which is such an encouragement to us in all branches of activities."

Inquiries regarding the fund's work, as well as any donations, should be addressed to Scott Montgomery, secretary, Save The Children Fund, 18 Toronto St., Toronto.

Cigarette Fund Notes

Dear Sir: It was sure nice to receive the carton of Sweet Caps today, and believe me they are always welcome. We are having a perfectly marvelous spring over here. The weather is just perfect and I'm enjoying it very much. I don't know how much longer I will be kept here as I am all through my course and am in draft company so maybe I will get over the Channel one of these days soon. I wish they would hurry though as I think this part of the war is about over and then maybe we will all be home again. I thank you again and those who make it possible for us to get these cigarettes.—Mel. Corbett.

Dear Sirs: Received the cigs o.k. and thanks a million. I am in Germany now, but so far everything is under control.—Ronald Jones.

Dear Sirs: Thank you all very much again for the cigarettes received. Everything here is fine and I hope it is the same over there. It should not be too long now before we are all back where we belong. All the very best to everyone.—A. Jones.

Sirs: Received smokes once more, thanks a million. We had quite a collection of Coleman boys here in Germany, five of us in all, Daly, Nimean, Kryvolk, Fred Beddington and myself, and what a chip-chai we had. Talked of the old town and then our experiences of the present battle and it was quite a do. All are well and looking forward to returning home soon. Best regards to all.—G. Burtink.

This is a letter of thanks for five cartons of cigs which I have received within the past two weeks. Your cigs usually come through regularly but this time I had a long gap and then received a bunch at once. One thing, whether they come in batches or singly, they are most welcome. I would like to extend my thanks to the people of Coleman who make these gifts possible.—Bill Naylor.

Thanks again for the cigs. I haven't lost any for ages. I guess I haven't been so good at sending back the cards lately, but I really do look forward to getting the cigarettes.—Mel. Cousins.

Dear Friends: The 300 cigarettes posted in Montreal March 6, arrived this morning. I would like to thank your organization and all who make it possible for you to send us this welcome monthly gift of smokes.—J. T. Dunbar.

Dear Sirs: Received your cigarettes this week. Thank you ever so much and I do hope to be able to thank you personally really soon. Wishing you all the best in your good work.—J. Panek.

Dear Friends: Have just received 300 cigs from you. Many thanks. Hope to be seeing you all before too long, but am looking forward to seeing Berlin first. Best wishes to all.—W. J. Bell.

Dear Sirs: I thought I would drop you a line and let you know that I received all the cigarettes intact. I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for the consideration you have taken in the matter and also to thank all the people who make it possible to send these cigarettes which are really appreciated. By the turn of the tide in the war it looks like you may be getting personal thanks from the boys before long. Thanks once more.—W. J. Bell.

NOW THERE'S A FUTURE IN FARMING

Under Liberal Government, Farm Incomes Rose Steadily

ONE out of every three men working in Canada is on the farm. Agriculture is the nation's most important industry. Since 1935, your Liberal Government has kept farming at the top of its list for action. Look at the panel (left).

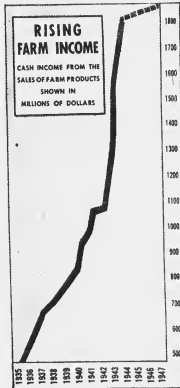

Although 23% fewer men have been available for farm work, production has increased more than 40%—a splendid record of achievement for victory!

Even before the war, by securing foreign markets, taking off surpluses and stimulating home consumption, your Liberal Government assisted in raising total farm income by 45%.

During the war, the farmer for the first time was put in the sound position of knowing exactly how he stood financially. He was protected against increases in his costs of production and guaranteed a market at fixed prices for a specified volume of produce. In 1939 farm income was $772,300,000; in 1944 it was $1,817,000,000, an increase of over a billion!

After the war, your Liberal Government has arranged to keep farm incomes up by floor prices on farm and fish products, and by foreign trade... to improve farm living conditions by Family Allowances, National Housing Plan, Farm Improvement Loans Act, and other social measures... and to secure agriculture's future by conservation of soil and other natural resources together with far-sighted projects for irrigation, road and other improvements as soon as manpower and materials are available.

When you vote Liberal you act for your own and your family's continued welfare.

Agriculture Abroad

THE PRODUCTION AND DISTRIBUTION of food has been one of the most complex problems with which the Allied Nations have had to contend during the past six years. For almost all of that time Great Britain and Europe have been cut off from normal imports of foodstuffs; Great Britain because of the scarcity of shipping space, and Europe because of the necessary naval blockade which lasted until "D" Day, and in some cases much longer. In Europe, there has been additional difficulty caused by the fact that much farm land on that continent has been in the path of battle. There has also been widespread shortage of land and livestock by the retreating German army. It is expected that it will not be long before grain crops can again be produced there, but the re-establishment of the meat and dairy industry will take many years. Meanwhile food and farm equipment will have to be sent from other countries to assist in the rehabilitation of those nations which have been most seriously disorganized because of the war.

Faced Serious Food Shortage

In Great Britain the problem has been less acute, but that country nevertheless faced serious food shortages at the beginning of the war. At that time Britain was the largest importer of food in the world, but the need for shipping space for vital war supplies made it necessary for food imports to be sharply reduced. In order to meet this situation a great wartime program of farm mechanization was undertaken, resulting in the increase of arable land from 13,000,000 to 19,000,000 acres. This brought nearly one-third of the total area of the country under cultivation, and made possible the production of at least seventy per cent. more food than before the war. A unique nation-wide electrical system has made electricity available to ninety seven per cent. of the population of the British Isles, so that farmers in even the most remote districts could make use of the newest mechanized equipment.

Farm Workers Now Mechanics

Farm machinery in Britain now includes more than two tractors to every square mile of territory, and seven tractors to every square mile of arable land. Fifty-two types of tractors, all produced in the United Kingdom, are available to farmers there, and in addition, a large number of other agricultural machines have been developed during the war, so that now almost every farm task from plucking poultry to soil culture is done by machinery. It is said that the British farm laborer has, during the past few years, changed from a manual worker to a mechanic. In spite of this great expansion in food production, Britain does not intend to become self-sufficient in this line. When shipping conditions return to normal, British farmers will be asked to supply milk, vegetables and other protective foods which can be best produced there, but much food will again be imported from abroad. Britain, however, is looking forward to building up an export trade of farm machinery, which has been so successfully manufactured there during the war.

Practical Education Have Solved Problem

Educational Needs For Remote Areas In Far North

In a recent survey of educational needs for remote areas of the far north, C. H. Piercy, administrator for northern Saskatchewan, reported that practical education is needed for the boys and girls living in the north-land.

As almost every family in the north owned an out board motor, owing to the numerous waterways, motor mechanics should be included in courses for the boys. Other courses for boys should include, conservation of forests and animals, milk farming, simple economics, including information on the value of furs and goods used in trade; the use of fire-arms; map reading and nature science. For the girls, Mr. Piercy suggested instruction in cooking, sewing, home nursing preserving and simple economics. Mr. Piercy suggested that the government build and operate two boarding schools for the free education of some 250 children of scattered families in remote areas, and also build seven new schools in permanent settlements.

READY TO MOVE

Authorities permitted the disclosure that during Britain's darkest days of the war plans were made to move Parliament from London if necessary. Under one of several alternatives members would have gone to Stratford-on-Avon and used the Shakespeare memorial theatre as a meeting place.

Airline Control

The Only Practical Way To Avoid Ruinous Competition

H. J. Symington, president of Trans Canada Air Lines, and newly-elected president of the International Air Transport Association, said in an interview, "That allocation of air frequencies to international airlines is the only practical way to avoid ruinous competition in world commercial aviation after the war."

He added that "chaos" in the air and unchecked rivalry would be fatal to an orderly expansion of commercial air travel.

"By standardizing procedures, the International Air Transport Association, composed of 59 airlines of 33 nations, will bring people and nations closer together, helping to break down many of the barriers between," he added.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q My son expects to be discharged from the army in a week or two. How will he obtain his ration book?

A Commencing May 1st, persons discharged from the Armed Forces will obtain Form RB-64 D "Application for Civilian Food Ration Book" from their respective discharge establishments. These forms, when filled out completely, may be presented to the Local Rationing Board in your locality, and a ration book will be issued.

Q The storekeeper in our town is asking his customers to carry home as many parcels as possible without being wrapped. Is there actually a serious shortage of wrapping paper?

A All retailers have been drastically cut in their quota of wrapping paper and bags. I would like to suggest that when at all possible customers should carry their goods unwrapped. Using shopping bags would greatly ease the situation. Returning paper bags and wrapping paper to the store would also be a great help.

Q Should I keep the labels which are being placed on most of the clothing?

A These labels are placed on articles of clothing for your protection and should be carefully looked after. If you find that an article does not give you satisfaction and you wish to report the matter to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, the label will give you the information as to the manufacturer, size and price you paid. A good idea would be to place the date of purchase on the label.

Q Is the price that decorators can charge for papering walls controlled by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board?

A Yes, the prices are controlled, and must not exceed the price charged during the basic period, September 15 to October 11, 1941.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

To study the possibilities of electrification in small urban and rural centres in Saskatchewan, the provincial government has set up a six-man committee, Reconstruction Minister J. H. After studying the possibilities of rural electrification, the committee will make a report to the government. Special consideration will be given the place of individual power units for those areas in the province where power from major transmission lines would not be available.

Egg Shipments

Cargo Of Nearly 25 Million Eggs Carried On One Vessel

Revised figures in the shipment of nearly 10 million eggs to Britain on a single ship show that the cargo of eggs was nearer 25 million than ten. In 100 cartloads of 66,000 cases the dozens of eggs should have read 1,980,000, or 23,760,000 eggs and not as formerly stated 782,000 dozen and 9,384,000 eggs.

Meanwhile reports are pouring in from representative members of the egg trade in all parts in Britain giving high praise about the quality and condition of the eggs sent from Canada. Breakages have not been excessively heavy. At the same time, the Eggs and Poultry Weekly Market Report of the Dominion Department of Agriculture gives a word of caution: "While praise is encouraging," it says, "Canada must not rest on her laurels. This job of exporting is not yet done to perfection. There is still too much breakage. More safeguards are needed to insure necessary uniformity in quality as demanded."

LISTED IN WHO'S WHO

The British Who's Who for 1945 devoted 31 lines to a biography of Adolf Hitler and even listed the Fuehrer's telephone number in Berlin—11-6191. The late President Roosevelt's biography took up 33 lines; Prime Minister Churchill's 48 and Marshal Stalin's 45.

PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL SAYS BRITAIN WILL CONTINUE THE FIGHT AGAINST JAPAN

LONDON. Prime Minister Churchill said today that Britain will continue the fight against Japan, and that it ought to be put out of the war against Japan. He said "we have received terrible injuries from the Japanese and we are bound by the ties of honor and fraternal loyalty to the United States to fight this great war at the other end of the world at their side without flagging or failing."

His parents were out at the time of the blast.

Police said the youth was in his bedroom alone working on the bomb. The explosion dismembered him and demolished everything in the room. All windows in the house were shattered.

It was not known where he obtained the bomb. Fragments picked up indicated it was about 10 inches long.

WEATHER RESTRICTIONS

OTTAWA. With the exception of the Maritimes, there is no further restriction on weather broadcasting in Canada. In the Maritime area, weather broadcasts are restricted to the official radio releases of the Dominion Meteorological Bureau.

"We seek nothing for ourselves. But we must make sure that those causes which we fought for find recognition at the peace table in facts as well as words, and above all we must labor that the world organization which the United Nations are creating at San Francisco does not become an idle name, does not become a shield for the strong and a mockery for the weak."

"It is the victors who must search their hearts in their glowing hours and be worthy by their nobility of the immense forces that they yield."

Mr. Churchill made no direct reference to an election to end Britain's wartime coalition government but indicated he felt his work had not been completed. He said, however, he would step down "with the best of grace" if the people thought they had had enough of him.

"I wish I could tell you tonight that all our trials and troubles are over," he said. "Then indeed I could."

War Workers Are Asked To Remain On Jobs

OTTAWA. Munitions Minister Howe has called on war workers to stay at their jobs in an effort to bring about a quick defeat of Japan.

In a review of the immediate outlook for various phases of war production, Mr. Howe said some adjustments already had been made in production programs and the gradual conversion from war to peace output would be accomplished "with a minimum of disturbance."

He summed up the immediate prospects this way:

Aircraft Production will continue indefinitely with emphasis on more recent combat models and a reduction in trainers.

Shipbuilding Continued high rate into 1946 with a possibility of increase in ship repairs.

Chemicals and explosives Reduction in line with ammunition demands. Production for agricultural and other industrial needs continuing high.

Armored vehicles A sharp reduction.

Automotive vehicles—A partial conversion from military to civilian requirements will keep plants fully engaged.

Railway equipment Production to be increased.

Defence construction — Program completed.

Miscellaneous military stores—Little change with demands continuing to be heavy.

"Production of civilian necessities deferred by the war, together with production for export to the liberated countries, will absorb manpower released by a lessening of war production and this summer the labor demand will be heavy," Mr. Howe said.

FAVOR MONARCHY

But Report Says Many Belgians Want Leopold To Abdicate

LONDON. Liberated after five years of Nazi imprisonment, King Leopold III of Belgium faces a future beset with uncertainty.

The 42-year-old monarch and his queen a commoner whom he married while a prisoner, were rescued by U.S. Seventh Army men who overpowered German Elite Guard troops guarding the royal party at Stroth, eight miles east of Salzburg in Austria.

Reports from Belgium have indicated the king's homecoming would be received with mingled feelings by his countrymen.

Some Belgians resent bitterly the fact that Leopold did not flee to an Allied haven as did the queen of the Netherlands. Some also think he should explain why he capitulated to the Germans 18 days after they invaded Belgium.

Most Belgians were said to be strongly in favor of a monarchy, but repeated gaining ground was the suggestion that the king abdicate in favor of his heir, 14-year-old Prince Leopold, with Prince Charles continuing as regent.

Says All Air Lines Will In Future Lead To Winnipeg

WINNIPEG. All air-lines in future war Canada will lead to Winnipeg, Lieut.-Col. C. P. Edwards of Ottawa, federal deputy minister of transport said in an interview here.

Two immediate steps were necessary in T.C.A.'s plans to establish a nationwide airline with Winnipeg its headquarters, he said. They were establishment of a main line from Toronto west across the Great Lakes and development of a direct run from Winnipeg to Edmonton via Saskatoon.

Within a year luxury liners will be making regular flights across Canada, he said.

ACT BROADENED

Gratuities Will Be Paid To Service Estate Of Deceased Soldier

OTTAWA. Broadening of the provisions of the War Service Grants act to permit payment of gratuities to the service estate of a deceased soldier has been announced by defence headquarters.

Previously, payment of the gratuity could only be made to or on behalf of a soldier whose death occurred while on active service or who died after discharge but before his grant had been paid in full.

Recent amendment to the war service gratuity regulations provides that where no person qualifies as a dependent, the gratuity is added to the service estate of the deceased, which is distributed in every case for all three services by the estate branch of the defence department.

INVASION OF JAPAN

U.S. Fleet Commander Says That Plans Are In The Making

GUAM. Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, United States Pacific fleet commander, said at a press conference that plans are in the making for invasion of Japan.

Asked about the prospect of unconditional surrender without an actual invasion of the Japanese homeland, he said the Japanese "presumably can read the signs and ought to be able to perceive the inevitable."

However, he added: "It will be necessary for us to go ahead on the assumption that it will be necessary to invade Japan."

Gen. MacArthur, Allied southwest Pacific commander, hailed the news of victory in Europe, at Manila rejoiced at the expectation his command will be reinforced.

SPOKE FOR ALLIES

Newspaper Men Knew Radio Atlantic Was Propaganda Station

LONDON. Now it can be told—that Radio Atlantic, the station which heaped a flood of sensational reports all through the war, was actually an Allied propaganda station.

A Swiss newspaper says that some neutrals knew the nature of the Atlantic station all the time—as did newspaper men in Britain who kept mum.

The Swiss newspaper says Radio Atlantic closed down May 1.

AGREES TO PRICE

British Food Ministry Will Pay More For Fall Eggs

OTTAWA. The special products board announced the British ministry of food has agreed to a fall price of 45 cents a dozen, f.o.b. seaboard, for eggs of grade "A" quality in cartons, the price to apply on purchases from Sept. 15 to Dec. 15, 1945.

The price is six cents a dozen higher than the export price paid for winter and spring eggs of the same quality.

COAL CARRIER

Was Torpedoed By German Sub On May 5

BOSTON. Twelve men are missing and three were injured when a German submarine torpedoed and sank the U.S.S. Black Point, 5533-ton coal carrier, off Point Judith, R.I., in the closing hours of the European war on Saturday night, May 5.

An official of the firm "winning the collier, said one submarine was reported destroyed by naval action."

V-CAR SELLS BONDS—Carrying its message 3,000 miles across Canada from Montreal to Vancouver, the above Cape Car urged Canadians to "Invest in the Best." The car was specially painted in blue and white and decorated with Victory Loan symbols at Vancouver, going into service on the opening of the eighth Victory Loan and will continue on its run until the end of the loan period. Photo shows the V-car at Field, B.C., against the backdrop of Mount Stephen and the railroad Y.M.C.A.

HEAVY MOVEMENT OF GRAIN TO EUROPE IS EXPECTED TO LAST THROUGHOUT SHIPPING SEASON

MONTREAL—A heavy movement of grain to Europe, expected to last throughout the St. Lawrence shipping season, was in full swing out of Montreal harbor as food took top priority away from the war supplies which have held it so long.

Fifty-one ships were at Montreal docks, with most of them unloading grain after bringing it from the head of the lakes, or loading it for shipment to Europe. The vessels ranged from 2,000-ton lakers to large ocean-going ships.

Shipping authorities said the heavy movement was expected to last until winter ice ties up the St. Lawrence again. They said grain was coming down the lakes on a steady stream of ships, and that it would be cleared out of Montreal elevators as fast as shipping space was available.

The movement is part of that predicted by Transport Controller Lockwood several weeks ago when he appealed to shippers to free freight cars as quickly as possible so that millions of tons of grain could be taken from the prairies by rail to Port Arthur and Port William.

It is estimated that at that time that more than 1,000 carloads of grain a day would be moved to the head of the lakes. Most of that vast stream of food now is coming direct to Montreal from the lakehead.

Most of the ships loading here for the trans-Atlantic trade are from Britain, and it was understood that the grain would be stored in British elevators for future allotment to liberated countries on the continent. Some ships, however, are bound direct to countries such as Greece which have been hard-hit for food.

Within recent days, more than a dozen heavily-laden grain ships from the lakes have docked here. Several others have passed through the port to unload further down the St. Lawrence and relieve the strain of facilities here. Ocean-going ships will pick up the Europe-bound foodstuffs at lower St. Lawrence river ports.

British grain officials said in a recent visit to Montreal that the St. Lawrence would have to be "filled with ships" to get enough grain to Europe to see stricken countries through the winter. Today the "filling" process was well under way.

Cigarette Fund Notes

Dear Sirs: Sorry for being so slow in thanking you and the people of Coleman who make possible the parcels of cigarettes. Received 300 in March and 300 this month. Have been very busy as you all know trying to end it soon and it appears we are succeeding.

Was fortunate in meeting up with young Sudworth, that's the only boy I've met over here so far. Tell his folks he is well and looking good. He doesn't crush the rocks fine enough on the roads his unit builds. I sure caught him on them with my bike. Cheerio, and thanking you and the people of Coleman sincerely. Keep up the good work.—S. J. Mysyniuk.

Dear Friends: Thank you for the 300 cigarettes which I received yesterday.—T. J. Dunbar.

Dear Sirs: Thanks a million for cigs just received. I have just returned from seven days leave in London and south Wales. It was sure nice to be in a country that's English again, where you can talk and understand one another.

You have heard that we left Italy some time ago and are now with the 1st Cdn. Army on the western front. It is much better over here, but the fighting is still tough up here in Holland. The people in Belgium were very good to us while we were there. A couple of Hillcrest boys were on the same train with me on leave to England. One was named Eddie Caswell, but I forgot the other fellow's name. We are all fine and are hoping that it will soon be over so that we can get back home.—Archie Wragg.

Dear Friends: I received another of your gifts of cigarettes, for which I thank you very much. As I have said before I do not know how to thank you enough. Maybe some day soon I may be able to do so in person.—A. G. D'Andrea.

Dear Friends: Receiving cigarettes regularly and thanks a lot. I hope it won't be long before you have not to send any more.—Geo. Burchell.

Dear Comrades: Thanks very much for the welcome cigs. Just got back to my station after being away a month. That is why I am a little tardy in answering. Hoping you are all enjoying the best of health and looking forward to Victory celebrations. Thanks for all your kindness.—E. Derbyshire.

Dear Sirs: Received the cigs o.k. They are still coming through fine. —Ronald Jones.

WALKED AT SIX AND A HALF MONTHS

This is a case where seeing is believing. Sandra Lee Simmons, of Fourth street, now eight months has been walking since she was six and a half months old. This amazing little youngster needed very little coaxing to stand on her own feet and step out without aid from anyone. She is not a heavy baby, but apparently has great strength in her legs. A number of interested friends have visited the Simmons household just to see this little girl navigate on her own.
